

1955 Chevrolet Pickup – Bill Rogers

- 1955 was first year Cameo made
- 55-59 Chevy only made 10,000 copies of the Cameo.
- Only colors were white and red
- This one is a straight six (6) cylinder, 235 ci engine, with 4-speed hydraulic transmission
- Truck bed is fiberglass, and is customized from cab back (all factory custom)
- Sold at Barrett-Jackson for $20K, completely restored in 2004, Bill bought from Avery-Greene in 2021

The luxury truck market has really caught fire the past decade. Many believe that this is a new trend however it was something that GM had tried many decades ago. The Cameo was really the first truck that put styling and comfort before the utility of the vehicle.

This Cameo was built with that in mind and this stunning example will not be hauling any gravel anytime soon but rather stealing the show anywhere you take it. This copy has been meticulously restored using all original parts and has been done with great detail.

Taking it back to its original state this vehicle shows in the same condition as when it left the showroom. A beautiful coat of white paint covers the truck which makes that deep red accent on the cab and bed stand out for miles.

Open up that driver door and you are greeted with the same color combo on the restored interior which features restored original gauge cluster and radio! That streamline fiberglass truck bed is not for the working man anymore just look at that polished wood and stainless trim! This Cameo has a lot of unique options to the year.

The original owner decided to order with the sewing machine singer of a motor the 235ci Inline 6 mated to a rare 4-speed hydromantic auto transmission as well as a nice chrome spotlight and futuristic headlight high beam detector. This truck as stylish and aesthetically ahead of its time as it was still a quite simple machine. This Cameo features base options including AM radio Spare tire wide white walls high beam detector.

